Woman: May I help you?
Boy: Yes, I'm looking for a bag for my mother.
Woman: I see. What color would your mother like?
Boy: I'm not sure....
Woman: We have white, yellow, blue, and red ones. How about this white one?
Boy: It's nice, but I think it's too big for her. Do you have any smaller ones in this color?
Woman: Sorry. We have only blue ones in the smaller size. Here you are.
Boy: Oh, it's beautiful. How much is it?
Woman: It's three thousand yen.
Boy: OK. I'll take it.

では、始めます。(2秒の間)

About twenty high school students cleaned the beach at Odaiba, Tokyo, last Saturday. One of the students said, "Cleaning it was hard work. But we are happy that we did it." Another student said, "We should clean it every month." They think it is important to clean the beach, and they worked very hard. They are members of the Science Club of a high school in Tokyo and studying about life in the sea near Tokyo.

The sea water near Tokyo is much cleaner than it was fifty years ago, and there are many different kinds of fish. Many people are happy about that. Tanaka Taro started fishing forty years ago in the sea near Tokyo. He says, "I'm happy to know that the high school students cleaned the beach." He wants to keep fishing for thirty more years. He thinks more young people should be interested in life in the sea. He hopes that the sea near Tokyo will always be clean.
